City Rejuvenates Roads with 'Reclamite' Technology

Stuart, FL – The City of Stuart recently completed a road rejuvenation project on 11 streets, utilizing a pavement technology that helps to preserve asphalt and life expectancy of roadways.

'Reclamite Asphalt Rejuvenator' is a penetrating sealer that replaces the vital ingredients lost from the pavement's binder over time due to exposure to the sun's UV rays and wet weather. When applied, the Reclamite technology reverses the effects of aging and protects from damage by restoring plasticity and durability of the asphalt binder.

This technology ultimately delays the need to repave streets, significantly reducing taxpayer costs of maintaining roadways long-term. A retreatment is anticipated to be applied to the 11 streets in five years, further prolonging the life expectancy of these roadways.

It is also important to note that any remaining material tracked onto driveways or left on the roads will weather off in three weeks or less, leaving no stains.
